County Maine Alumni Plan Supper Meet

University of Maine alumni, representing different areas of Oxford county, held a meeting Monday evening at the court house in South Paris to plan for reactivation of the Oxford County Alumni Association. Alden Chase, of Bryant Pond, presided.

Under the guidance of Miss Elizabeth Mason of Bethel, member of the Alumni Council, plans were made for a supper meeting to be held in August for all the alumni of Oxford County. The date of this supper, and place, are to be announced later.

The following attended this meeting: Alden Chase, of Bryant Pond; Robert Dennison, Rita Flynn, Mr and Mrs Steve Chase, Mrs Ruth Decoteau, of Norway; Charles Hammond and Bryant Bean, of South Paris; Tom Dixon, of Mexico; Earl Brown, of Waterford; Elizabeth Mason, Bethel; Charles Snow, Fryeburg; and Warren Abbott, of Rumford.

Robert Dennison of Norway was chosen chairman of the supper committee. Others on the committee are Earl Brown and Ruth DeCoteau. Tom Dixon of Mexico is program chairman.

Contacts are being made of all the alumni in this area, and all are cordially invited to this organization supper. Watch for the announcement in your local paper.

SEEKING NEW MEMBERS OF THREE-QUARTER CENTURY CLUB

Maine's Three-Quarter Century Club, the only state-wide organization of its kind in the country, has selected the Lewiston Armory as the place for the 1953 annual meeting, to be held on Friday, August 21.

This unique club, made up of the State's elder citizens, was the first Three-Quarter Century Club organized in the nation. Over 3,000 persons seventy-five and over are now enrolled in the Maine Club and this year marks the twenty-eighth year of the club's founding.

Several cities in other states have copied Maine in forming similar organizations for the recognition of the oldsters of their respective communities. The first meeting in Maine was held at Augusta in 1925.

The Maine Three-Quarter Century Club is sponsored by the State of Maine Publicity Bureau and one-day meetings of the Club are held in different parts of the State each summer.

Maine Lions Clubs for the past several years have acted as hosts for the annual meetings. Member Clubs arrange transportation to and from the meeting place for the old people of their communities who wish to attend.

Membership to the club is open, dues free, to any person who has reached or passed the seventy-five year mark and resides in the state of Maine either permanently or as a summer resident.

Every person in Maine seventy-five or older, who has not previously enrolled, is urged to fill out and return to the Maine Publicity Bureau's Portland office the enrolment blank in this issue and make plans to attend this year's meeting August 21st in Lewiston.

Mr and Mrs H J McCrodden and sons, Brian and Douglas, of Bethlehem, Pa., are visiting Mr and Mrs Norris Brown at their camp at Songo Pond.

OXFORD POMONA GRANGE TO HOLD FIELD DAY

Oxford Pomona Grange is holding a field day and picnic at Littlefield's Beach between Bryant Pond and Locke Mills on Sunday, July 19. All Patrons of Husbandry, their families, and friends of the order are cordially invited to attend. Committees have been appointed for a horseshoe tournament, children's games, softball, and swimming. Everyone is urged to bring their equipment. It is expected that a large crowd will attend this event. Beach fee is 10c each.

ABRAHAM J. ROZEK

Abraham J Rozek of 90 Hillside Ave., Berlin, N. H., died last Friday at Maine Osteopathic Hospital, Portland.

A retired clothing merchant, for eight years he had been associated with his daughter, Miss Rose Rozek, in the Specialty Shop in Bethel. He had been a resident of Berlin 55 years.

He was born in Altha, Syria, Dec. 1, 1880, the son of Joseph and Ruth Azziz Rozek, and came to the United States at an early age. He was a member of St. Barnabas Church; Berlin Lodge, No. 618, BPO Elks; and Sabatis Lodge of Masons.

Surviving are his widow, Tadia Razooke Rozek; seven daughters, two sons and 12 grandchildren; also a brother and three sisters.

Funeral services were in St. Barnabas Church, Berlin on Monday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Burial was in the City Cemetery.

COUNTY LAGS IN SALES OF E AND H SAVINGS BONDS

Sales of Series H Savings Bonds in Oxford County and Maine have lagged behind most of the other States, according to George H Viles of South Paris, County Chairman of the U S Savings Bonds Committee. The reason for this seems to be that investors are not fully aware of the attractive features of this comparatively new government issue, he said.

The Series H Bond pays interest by check every six months, as does the old Series G Bond, but differs from the G Bond in that it can be cashed at any time after the first six months on one month's written notice at par (100); while the G Bond is discounted if cashed prior to maturity as an adjustment of interest, he explained. Interest adjustment is automatic when a holder of an H Bond redeems prior to maturity through a graduated scale of interest checks.

For example, the first check after six months on a $500 H Bond (the smallest denomination available) is $2.00. The next 7 semiannual checks are $6.25; the next 11 semiannual checks $8.50; and the final check is $8.50. If the owner holds his bond for one year he will earn 1.65 per cent; 2 years, 2.21 per cent; 5 years, 2.49; 7 years, 2.73; and to maturity, (9 years and 8 months), 3 percent. G Bonds yields 2½ percent to maturity, but are no longer being offered.

Money invested in U S Savings Bonds runs no risks of losses due to market fluctuations, Viles added. The recent changes in stock and bond prices on the market have absolutely no relation to the value of U S Savings Bonds. Both principal and interest of Savings Bonds are guaranteed by the Treasury.

Sales of Series and H Bonds combined in Oxford County for the first half of 1953 amounted to $211,069, 28% of the year's quota, Chairman Viles reported. If enough investors buy H Bonds, we can make our quota by the end of this year, he said. E Bonds are still popular and sales are slightly ahead of last year.

BANKERS TO GIVE 4-H MEMBERS FIVE DAIRY CALVES AT SHOW

Again this year the Maine Bankers Association will present five hundred purebred dairy calves to deserving 4-H club members as a feature of the annual State Dairy Show at Windsor Fair Grounds on Saturday, August 1. The MBA has donated $1,100 to buy the calves from leading Maine breeders. Another feature of the 4-H division of the Dairy Show will be the selection of about 20 outstanding calves to represent Maine with their young owners at the 4-H Club Roundup at the Eastern States Exposition in September. Judging will start at 10 a. m. on August 1 and continue until midafternoon, with several rings in operation all the time. The public is invited to attend.

40 Farmers in Green Pasture Program

Forty Oxford County farmers have enrolled in the 1953 Maine and New England Green Pastures Program. Twenty-nine of them have enrolled in the pasture and roughage improvement program. Towns represented include Andover, Bethel, East Brownfield, Buckfield, Canton, Denmark, Fryeburg, North Fryeburg, Hebron, Hiram, South Hiram, Norway, Oxford, West Paris, South Paris, West Peru, Rumford, Rumford Point, East Stoneham, Upton, Waterford, and Bryant Pond.

Judging of the roughage programs on these farms in the county wishing to be judged, will get underway about the last week of July. State judging of the top three pasture programs in each county wishing to be judged, will get underway about the last week of July. State judging of the top three pasture programs in each county will be done early in August, with the New England judging starting in Southern New England early in August.

At least four of the farms entered have chosen not to have fellow dairymen judge their roughage programs.

Rain Lessens Fire Danger; Helps Crops

Governor Burton Cross removed the ban on woodland campfires and smoking in the woods Tuesday afternoon after an inch and a half of rainfall. The banned area, south and west of the Androscoggin River, was a serious fire hazard for some time receiving less rainfall than other sections of the State. The ban had been in effect since midnight Friday.

Monday's steady rain not only drenched the fire areas but was in time to save many crops which had suffered several weeks. Weather men predict a period of cooler weather and more rainfall.

SALVATION ARMY MAKING ANNUAL APPEAL

The 1953 annual appeal of The Salvation Army for funds is now in progress here according to Carl L Brown, Chairman of Bethel Service Unit Committee.

A quota of $750 has been set for the Bethel area and part of the funds raised will be retained by the local committee for welfare here in this area. Letters regarding the appeal are now in the mail and residents are being urged to respond immediately making any additional canvas unnecessary.

It is not the purpose of The Salvation Army in organizing Service Units to duplicate any of the relief which is being carried on by the State or Federal government. These Service Units are organized to render immediate assistance of a nature which, heretofore, has not been available to those in the community who are in immediate need, thus eliminating "red tape."

Funds to carry out this program are derived from this financial appeal which is conducted in the community annually. Any cases needing assistance should be brought to the attention of any Service Unit committee member, and they in turn will see that the case receives immediate attention.

If you have mislaid or not received a letter, please mail your contribution to the local Treasurer, Miss Frances H Morrill, Bethel Savings Bank, Bethel, Maine.

Mrs Agnes M Waddell and daughter Patty and Tim and Mrs Edward Bean of Norfolk, Va. are spending 10 days with Mr Bean's mother, Mrs Helena Bean, and sister and husband, Mr and Mrs Homer Tibbetts.

The Week in Oxford County

An airplane hangar at the Rumford Airport was destroyed by fire this Thursday morning. Privately owned airplanes near the building were not damaged. An explosion felt over a wide area preceded the blaze.

The Oxford Paper Co. granted a 6c per hour increase to bargaining units at a special meeting Tuesday evening. Announcement was made by Jesse Vieini, regional director and the representative of District 50 UMWA, Peter Landino.

County volunteer firemen of Western Maine and Cumberland County observed ladies night at their Norway meeting Monday evening. A turkey dinner was served by the ladies of the Universalist Church. A program followed a joint business meeting.

Miss Grace Crowell of Rumford was guest of honor at a luncheon at New Hotel, Rumford, Tuesday noon. She was presented a pin for 25 years service as operator for the new England Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Mr and Mrs Arthur McKeen, Norway, announced the engagement of their daughter, Anna Rachel, to Harold E Small of Eastport. No date has been set for the wedding. Both plan to enter Gordon College, Boston.

Later reports from the town of Sumner state they have no intention of giving up their town form of government and reverting to plantation type. The error in reporting was through a misinterpretation of the vote following the reading of the article in the warrant at the Special Town Meeting.

Richard Worthley, 13 year old son of Mr and Mrs Alton Worthley, East Dixfield, was seriously injured Friday when he fell from a load of hay. The dual wheels passed over his body. He is a patient at the CMG hospital.

LOOKING AHEAD

by GEORGE S. BENSON

President—Harding College

Searcy, Arkansas

How The Reds Attract Youth

Respected leaders in their chosen profession have great influence on the younger generation. Ben Hogan, the renowned professional golfer, attracts the admiration of every amateur in the county. Young mechanical engineers look up to Charles F Kettering, the wizard of General Motors. The Mayo brothers inspire young doctors. Communism in America cunningly uses the follow-the-leader impulse to recruit vigorous young people into its conspiracy.

Nowhere is this fact more clearly revealed than in the testimony of Herbert Philbrick, of Boston, during a recent hearing of the Senate Internal Security Committee. He worked undercover as a counterspy for the FBI for nine years and became a trusted associate of national Communist leaders. His career with the Communists started early in 1940 when, at the age of 23, he was attracted to the Cambridge Youth Council in Boston. He was later to learn that it was created and operated by the Communists to ensnare and train youth for communism.

Nationally Known Professors

"Among the incentives presented to me to join" he testified at the Senate Committee hearing, "was the fact that the organization had a number of adult people in the community who were something as sponsors of this organization. Among them I remember I was told that Kirtley Mather of Harvard University was a sponsor. Another, I was told was a Prof Dirk J Struik of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"Well, I assumed that with these individuals a well known in their field, renowned scholars, and particularly since they were members of the faculty of these great universities, Harvard and MIT, that of course, the organization would be all right.

Committee Counsel Robert Morris: In other words, the names of these prominent educators attracted you to joining the organization?

Philbrick: That is right. As a matter of fact, they attracted not only me but, in subsequent developments, attracted some 35 youth organizations in Cambridge involving about 400 or 500 young people, and of course, the vast majority of them were not Communists.

"Pro-I"

When young Philbrick discovered the true nature of the Cambridge Youth Council he went to the FBI and was subsequently persuaded to become a Communist for the FBI. He did such a good job for the Communists, the national leaders selected him to go underground in the fall of 1947. He became a member of a Boston underground cell called "Pro-I." They were professional, secret Communists.

Philbrick: It was a considerable shock to me when I discovered the nature of this Communist Party cell. I can recall very vividly walking into my first meeting ....it was a very beautiful apartment. These folks obviously were of excellent culture. In fact, some of them would stand as people of distinction.

Committee Counsel Morris: Will you give us a general breakdown of the 10 or 30 party members of this "Pro-I" group in Boston?

Amazing Facts

Philbrick: As near as I could determine (based on 9 years membership) there were 5 to 6 doctors in the pro group in Boston; lawyers, between 6 and 8; teachers — and by that I mean teachers in the public schools in the Boston area — about 8, professors — and by professors I mean those in the higher institutions of learning in the colleges and universities — a number ranging between 20 and 25 pro group Communist Party members. This was the largest single element of individuals in the pro section in Boston. The businessmen numbered between 12 to 15, government workers about 4 or 5. In the book publishing field there were about 4. And in the religious field between 7 and 8.

My underground pro group Communist Party members in the religious field (Philbrick continued) I mean those individuals — and this, again, was to me, as a Christian, a matter of terrific shock when I discovered this fact in line, too, a very dismal fact, that actually the Communist Party had in its pro group section between 7 to 8 individuals, hardened, disciplined, steeled party members posing as ministers of the gospel!

These Senate Internal Security Committee reports are available to any citizen. Everyone should read them.

OLIN A. PALMER, JR., 5109 Ardmore Way, Baltimore, Maryland, lost his right eye twelve years ago. Dejected? He says unless you have gone through a similar experience, you have no way of knowing the dejection he felt. He was only sixteen, and it was like losing half of his life. It meant that unless he could overcome his handicap he was destined to be a failure.

One day in a book about worrying he read "evergreen forests know how to bend, how to bow down their branches, how to cooperate with the inevitable." These words stuck in his memory, and he followed that philosophy. Instead of worrying about his loss, he told himself how fortunate he was to have one good eye. Rather than feel bad because he had lost half his sight, he realized how fortunate he was that he wasn't totally blind. In other words, he "cooperated with the inevitable."

Since that fatal day he has served three and one-half years in the army, traveling all over the country. He is a graduate of the University of Denver, from which he received an A.B. degree, and a graduate of the Southwest Photo-Arts Institute, and he says he is going right ahead bettering himself month by month.

Happenings That Affect the Future of Every Individual — National and International Problems Inseparable From Local Welfare

With few exceptions, everyone within the executive and legislative branches of the government believes that taxes on both individuals and business must be cut. The sole difference of opinion is over the question of when and how.

The Administration has taken the position that, desirable and essential as tax reduction is, it must wait until the budget is brought under control and is in or near a balance. Until relatively recently, it seemed that in all probability this position would prevail. That is not the case now. The Eisenhower tax program is in very real difficulties in the Congressional shoals.

There are two reasons for this. For one, public demand for early tax reduction is extremely strong — apparently the Congressional mail has been loaded with it. For another, Chairman Daniel A Reed of the House Ways and Means Committee stands solidly for immediate tax cuts and all the efforts of Administration representatives to change his views have availed nothing. By virtue of this chairmanship, Mr Reed is one of the most powerful men in the government when it comes to tax policy. The committee must originate all changes and renewals of our tax laws, and the chairman's authority is enormous.

Matters came to a head over the so-called excess-profits tax. This tax is about as unpopular a they come. President Eisenhower has denounced it. So has Senator Taft. So have practically all other authorities in and out of government. All agree that the tax is a killer of initiative and enterprise, and that it is especially evil in that it is most burdensome to the smaller corporatons and is an implacable obstacle to normal growth. Yet the Administration made extension of the tax for another six months one of the musts in its fiscal program. Two arguments can be used to justify that position. The first is that no source of government revenue should be abandoned just now — though this is a debatable argument in the case of the excess-profits tax, for the reason that many believe its abandonment would stimulate business expansion and activity to the point where the new revenue gained through income taxes would more than offset the losses. The second is that, for political reasons, it would be dangerous to materially reduce or eliminate a tax which is borne entirely by business unless taxes on individuals were also lightened at the same time. And the Administration cannot afford to overlook political matters in view of the fact that the entire House must stand for election next year.

On the other side, and still dealing with politics, there are leading Republicans, Representative Reed among them, who are convinced that if taxes are not cut all along the line, even before anything resembling a balanced budget is in sight, the GOP will take a bad beating in the off-year elections.

These points, of course, are speculations. What is not a speculation is that President Eisenhower's present tax program, for all of his vast standing and the affection and respect in which he is held by millions, is a far cry from a popular one. The advocates of immediate tax reduction may be wrong or they may be right—strong arguments can be marshalled on either side. But it is evident that they reflect a widespread and growing public feeling that the tax burden is becoming insupportable.

Scanning the News

LAST October in a speech at Memphis, Tennessee, President Eisenhower praised T. V. A. and said it "has helped conserve national resources, control floods and promote national defense."

As a result of that speech he received a large vote in the Chattanooga and Knoxville areas. In fact, he carried those areas which are usually heavily Democratic.

In a more recent speech, however, the President has criticised T. V. A. and used it as an example of "creeping socialism." This criticism is having a bad reaction in Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, North Carolina, Virginia and Mississippi, states served by T. V. A. The reaction is being felt in Washington and may have a direct result on congressional elections in 1954.

A number of influential newspapers, who have supported the President's program thus far, have taken issue with him on the subject of T. V. A. They are pointing out that:

(1) T. V. A. has repaid the Federal Treasury $101,131,519 since 1944. Every penny will be repaid by 1992.

(2) T. V. A. is more than $9,000,000 ahead of schedule in its payment to the federal government.

(3) After paying taxes, operating costs and allowing for depreciation, T. V. A. is showing a new earning of 4.3 per cent on money which the government borrowed at 2 per cent. In other words, the government is making a profit of 2.3 per cent.

The kindest reaction to the President's latest statement concerning T. V. A. in the seven states mentioned is that he is "mistaken about his facts."

A number of conclusions have been reached by political observers who watched the East Germany riots that indicates there was, after all, sound reasoning behind Russia's recent peace bids.

(1) Russian leaders realized that East Germany's puppet regime and other satellite governments have been built on shaky foundations. It was time to ease the tension in these countries.

(2) There is some measure of discontent in the Soviet Union itself and the average Russian does not want a war with the West.

(3) Russian leaders realized the only way to increase living standards in the Soviet Union and its satellites, and thus make the discontented contented, would be to turn its industrial facilities from war to peace-time production. This cannot be accomplished unless the huge supplies sent Red China are cut back sharply. For that reason peace in Korea was of topmost importance.

(4) The Chinese people have been almost continuously at war with someone for almost 30 years. No country can make much progress under such conditions. The Chinese people are beginning to want some of the better things of life that can be had only during peace times.

These, say the experts, are some of the main reasons behind Russia's peace offensive of the past few months.

CONGRESSIONAL Quiz

Q—If the U. S. should enter a Pacific alliance modeled after the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO), would we have to send troops to fight in French Indo-China?

A—As Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R.-N. J.) pointed out recently, the NATO treaty provides that an attack on any member will be considered an attack on all. If France and the U. S. agree to a similar pact in Asia, the Communist Viet Minh forces theoretically would be attacking us, and we probably would be obligated to send armed forces in addition to the aid we now give. Smith agreed with Sen. Robert A. Taft (R.-Ohio) that a NATO-type set-up in Asia would be a good thing, but said he didn't think we would have to promise as much as we do on the other side of the world.

Q—Did Sen. William F. Knowland (R.-Calif.), the acting Senate majority leader, support Gen. Eisenhower at the Republican convention last summer?

A—No. Until Eisenhower had already won. Knowland stood by Gov. Earl Warren (R.-Calif.)

Q—Can Congress order the UN Secretary-General not to hire an American Reds?

A—Not theoretically. The UN Charter forbids the Secretary-General to accept direction from any national government. However, on June 8 the Senate passed a bill to punish Americans who accept UN jobs without FBI security clearance.

AFTER NOON PRAYER

As I grow older, Lord, I pray
That I will not impatient be
With sounds the children make at play,
With words of youth which seem to me
To be so callow and so trite—
That I'll not always swear I'm right;
That I will not begrudge the young
The pleasures which I knew before;
That I will smile and hold my tongue
At antics which I might deplore.
For tolerance, O Lord, I pray—
And to recall I had my day!

The LOW DOWN FROM HICKORY GROVE

Today I come to the aid of 96 senators and 400 or 500 congressmen. My word, says Henry, since when did Congres do something that it deserves a pat on the back. Look-it, bub, I says, quit chattering—when a congressman needs help he needs help. Here he is down there — everybody needling him to stop the Govt. In its headlong spending, the cause of the big national headache on March 15th—and what does the mayor and the courthouse and 40 or 45 governors do. What, says Henry. I'll tell you, I says.

Every town, village, and county has an airport or water works it wants completed and with "gift" money—Govt. money. A delegation hops the rattler and heads for old spendville to get its share of the loot while there is still loot left. You even go down to the depot, to see 'em off.

And now you, you yourself you know it is not in the cards—you know "free" money from the Govt. is a phoney. Your own 16 year old highschool senior knows it, too—but you, you still go down to the depot to cheer. And your Senator and your Congressman with an ear tuned to "where are the votes," reckons he is a dead hombre if he don't favor your project. He shivers in his boots like the Silver City piano player doing his best—but not too sure somebody won't start shootin'.

Yours with the low down,

JO SERRA

GRASS ROOTS OPINION

Coatesville, Pa., Record: "Whatever his income, the taxpayer is hard pressed today. He pays local taxes, state taxes, sales taxes, inheritance taxes and corporate taxes through the manufactured product he buys. Heaviest of all is the Federal income tax, which takes from 22.2 to 92 cents of every taxable dollar."

Tampa, Texas, Daily News: "So many federal hand-out programs have grown up in the past 20 years that most people have lost track of the count long ago. That's why testimony that there are more than 40 federal grants-in-aid programs currently on the books is more than a little startling."

ideas from other editors

From the Windom Reporter, Windom, Minnesota: No businessman in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name being mentioned somewhere in its columns. So says the American Bankers Magazine. This does not mean, continues this writer, that you should have a whole, half or even a quarter page ad in every issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned if you do not use more than a 2-line space. A stranger picking up a paper should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertiser. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and to his town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town but refuses to advertise his own is not a valuable addition to any town. The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising businessman.

From The Lincoln Times, Lincolnton, N. C.: You'll just have to put up with Grandma if she's doing a little gloating. Modern researchers and modern housewives have just discovered what she has known all her life . . . and what, in fact, John Heywood remarked in 1546 . . . that "The green new broom sweeps clean."

Laboratory study reveals that the new broom does better than the old, beaten-up job because broom-corn (from which all efficient brooms are made) has hundreds of invisible "claws" on the sweeping end. These claws pick up the dust, dirt and lint and shove it along where you want it to go. A broom is "old" when these claws get worn down, and these scientific laboratory tests show that a new broom does as much sweeping in two swipes as an old broom does in seven or eight.

And the gals who are just beginning to keep house on their own, we hear, have discovered that the old-fashioned broom is a valuable aid to the new-fangled vacuum cleaner. It gets into corners and cracks and crannies more vigorously. It takes care of the over-cut paper, hunks of crayon, pencil stubs, lollypop sticks and broken toys on the playroom floor after a rainy day; snippings and pins and thread in the sewing room; shavings, bits of wood, nails and screws in Dad's workshop; the things that do not agree with the digestion of the suction-sweeper.

We mention all this just so you won't be too surprised at the return of the horse-and-buggy. But don't expect fringe on the top of your new surrey. It's unsanitary.

ADVERTISING PAYS

Advertising first must pay the consumer, because if it does not the merchant cannot profit. Once attracted, the satisfied customer will return and influence his friends and neighbors to do the same. The practice of advertising must be continued however, as it is open to all, and others can and will appeal for patronage and find it.

Many a customer little realizes the influence of advertising, and advertisers may become aware of its benefits only when they conclude they do not need it. Countless reliable products have become forgotten, and followed by something little better, just because they stopped telling their story.

They say the time to advertise is all the time. That is true. Also one should read the advertising all the time. There is no better way to learn of good values and new products. A community where more and more people can satisfy their needs near home is more independent and prosperous. There will always be those who prefer to buy elsewhere, but there are others who come here and like it.

ADVERTISING PAYS

Thursday, July 16

Do horses run upon rocks? Does one plow the sea with oxen? But you have turned justice into poison and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood. (Amos 6:12, R. S. V.)
Read Matthew 23:23-28.

AMOS, the prophet, sensed how far afield some of the people of his day had gone in their practice of religion. He said to them, "You have turned justice into poison and the fruit of righteousness into wormwood." He pointed up the likeness between their ill use of religion when he asked, "Do horses run upon rocks? Does one plow the sea with oxen?"

Thus he told the people that their practices of religion were dangerous, in that they could lead to destruction; and futile, for one cannot plow the sea with oxen, and no good could result from it even if one could.

Thus the fearless reformer was lifting up a truth for the people of his day.

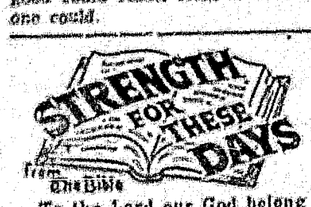
If the ancient prophet could see us and our practice of our faith, would he again ask: "Do horses run upon rocks? Does one plow the sea with oxen"?

Prayer

Our Father God, make us mindful of the responsibilities we have in our practice of our Christian faith. Enlighten us with the desire to stamp out corruption and evil. Help us to use religion to establish justice and righteousness and world order based on Thy love and righteousness. In His name. Amen.

Thought For The Day

I will try to live Christ's righteousness. —Robert P. Turner (South Carolina)



To the Lord our God belong mercies and forgiveness, though we have rebelled against Him.—(Daniel 9,9.)

Someone wrongs us; we refuse to forgive, and bitterness grows into the consuming fire of hatred. Yet God our Father, ruling the vast universe, still can look into the heart of the least of us, and be forgiving and merciful. Why should any human, then, be stubborn and hard?

My Neighbors

By Bill Parson

"Poor Ike—after 20 years of mismanagement I suppose we'll want him to fix everything by yesterday—at the very latest!"

REV. ROBERT H. HARPER
One World in Christ.
Lesson for July 19: Ephesians 2: 8-10, 13-22.
Golden Text: Ephesians 2: 19.

Mr. Willkie wrote of one world, but long centuries before his time Paul had envisioned one world in Christ. Men are to be saved, not by their own works, but through their faith in Christ. And in this there is the possibility of men throughout the world to become fellow citizens with the saints and of the household of God.

When Jesus died on the cross, a wondrous, strange thing happened. The veil of the temple, which had separated all but the high priest from the Holy of holies, was rent in twain from the top to the bottom, showing that henceforth all men, through faith might venture through the riven veil and approach the mercy seat, there to find God for themselves. It may have been to this riven veil that Paul referred when he wrote of breaking down the middle wall or partition. Certainly through Christ all men have "access in one Spirit unto the Father."

Thus all men are envisioned under the gospel, which can bring those that are near and those that are afar off into one household of faith. Nothing could be more comprehensive than the fine picture that Paul draws of Christians being drawn together in the work of building a fit temple unto God, founded upon the apostles and prophets, with Christ as the corner stone.

"I REMEMBER"

BY THE OLD TIMERS

From C. W. McFrederick, Creston, Ohio: I remember the corn huskings, apple cuttings, log rollings and tobacco-house raisings of many years ago. The whole community would turn out to a man and the women would come along to help with the cooking and to sew on a quilt.

From Damon Withers, Wheatcroft, Kentucky: I remember when we carried slates to school. Before our arithmetic recitation we made so much noise writing on the slates one could hardly hear the teacher. The first tablet substituted for a slate I thought to be extravagant. I also remember the first woven wire fence I ever saw and for good reason. I ran right smack into it before seeing it.

From Mrs. R. W. Nobles, Chadbourn, N. C.: I remember the old cypress knee-bucket that used to hang over my grandfather's well. It was suspended from a long beam fastened to a post, called a sweep, which was let down by hand to bring up water from the deep moss-lined well. A gourd, with a curved handled and scrubbed white, hung on a nail driven in the post. Those were the good old days.

From Mrs. Clair Reynolds, Hillsdale, Michigan: I remember when it was fashionable to have a nice driving horse and carriage and to ride out on Sunday afternoons. Some of these carriages were "surreys" with a fringe on top. And some people had white leather harness for their horses and the carriages were polished to a high luster. I consider such equipage to be much more wonderful than the finest automobile that money can buy.

Mr and Mrs Henry Richards and grandson Gery and William Taylor from Sherbrooke, P. Q., spent last week with Mr and Mrs James Spinney.

Mrs James Spinney and friends from Canada were in Rumford last Friday.

Mrs Annie Poole from Oxford is spending a few days with Mrs Spinney.

Mr Spinney was in Togus hospital Monday and Tuesday for a check up. He is at home for two weeks more.

Mr and Mrs Donald Fraser and children called at James Spinney's Sunday evening.

Mr and Mrs Horace Tibbetts were in Turner Sunday.

Mr and Mrs Horace Tibbetts and little Roger and Virginia Tibbetts attended the Grange Supper at East Bethel Saturday evening.

Mr and Mrs Joseph Deegan and children, Henry and Sally, visited at James Spinney's Saturday night.

Lemons will give out more juice if they're heated in hot water before they're squeezed, says Dr Kathryn E Briwa, Maine Extension Service foods specialist.

All of us will be spending many hours on the highway this summer, probably most of them on week ends as we journey to a lake or stream for fishing or a picnic or to a golf course. Let's not delay starting for our destination and then strain our automobile horsepower to the limit to make up time, advise our State Police. Let's get going early enough so we can enjoy the trip as well as the pleasure awaiting us at our destination.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank all who so kindly remembered me while I was in the hospital, including especially the Rebekahs and Odd Fellows, Mr. and Mrs. George Lothrop, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mundt, P. H. Chadbourne, and those who assisted in haying during my absence.

The outside of the station is coming along nicely as many of the folks have noticed. The building looks more like a permanent structure everyday and with a little paint on it, things will brighten up and I hope, be a credit to the town.

I still have some of those Kar Rugs left and I am still selling them at a reduced price. Also I might mention that I have some tar remover that really works without too much exertion on the part of the individual and that is what counts in this game.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT

Whereas, Our Heavenly Father again entered the ranks of Bear River Grange and taken to her eternal rest Sister Ella Emery, be it resolved:

That we, the members of this order, are conscious of the wisdom and mercy of the Divine Master in relieving our Sister from a long illness.

That we recall her many years of activities in which her home and family took first place.

That we recall her cheerful personality and endeavor to promote in our individual lives that spirit of friendliness, which endeared her to all who knew her.

That these resolutions be placed in our grange records and that copies be sent to the family of our departed Sister to the Oxford County Citizen for publication.

B. A. C.—BRYANT POND BATTLE TO 4-4 TEN INNING TIE AT POND WEDNESDAY EVE

The Bethel A. C. and Bryant Pond played to a ten inning 4-4 tie at Bryant Pond Wednesday evening. All runs were scored in the first three innings as Lawrence Bailey and Don Whitman, pitching in relief, settled to pitch seven scoreless frames apiece. Jim Young hurled the first three frames for Bryant Pond and Bob Buker was on the hill for Bethel for three innings.

This game will be re-played at Bryant Pond on Friday, July 24.

The Bethel A. C. will play Locke Mills at Thurston Field, Sunday afternoon at 2:30. On next Wednesday they will journey to Dixfield for a 6 p. m. game.

A peek at THE STARS

By LYN CONNELLY

ABC-TV's expansion policy has led to the signing of two sought-after comedians, Ray Bolger and Danny Thomas . . . Long-term deals have been set on shows currently being worked out for them . . . Bolger's NBC-TV appearance in 1952 was a smash success and all the webs have been after him . . . ABC-TV may also land Betty Hutton, volatile bundle of dynamite . . . Who's the best-dressed woman in music? Jo Stafford, according to a vote by the Fashion Academy of New York . . . Thirteen Cole Porter tunes will be heard in MGM's "Kiss Me Kate."

Harpo Marx, playing a benefit for the Palm Springs Police Department, had 40 of his props stolen . . . Either California cops are not on the beam or Harpo's talent had them in a trance . . . Ava Gardner told a London reporter: "I was not trained to be an actress, but I know emotions and I like being a star . . . It pays more . . . I live better and get more time off than when I was a secretary" . . . She has a point there . . . Also takes less gray matter, of which Ava is not overly-abundant . . . Toscanini will return in the fall with another series for NBC.

PLATTER CHATTER

COLUMBIA — Mindy Carson's latest is entitled "Three Red Roses" and Mindy makes the most of it . . . Back side has "I Cry Your Name" . . . Jerry Vale follows his impressive debut with a new one called "For Me" . . . It's backed by "Tired of Dreaming" . . . Teaming with Jimmy Boyd and then with Marlene Dietrich takes some doing and Rosemary Clooney is the gal who can do it.

CAPITOL—Don't want to neglect the small fry, and the big word for them is a new Hopalong Cassidy record, by William Boyd of course . . . It's the exciting tale of "Cassidy and the Mail Train Robbery" . . . Tex Ritter sings "The Animal Fair" backed by "I Was Born a Hundred Years Ago" in fine fettle.

If you're going to drive on your vacation this year, our State Police warn you against a fatal mistake so many vacationing motorists make—trying to drive too far in too little time. This involves driving too fast and driving when exhausted or sleepy. Don't—if you want to be sure of your vacation.

Your vision is extremely important on the highway. Be sure that your car windshield always gives you a clear picture of traffic. Our State Police caution us that a dirty shield is an invitation to trouble.

Some drivers brag about the tight spots they've gotten out of. Safe drivers seldom get into such spots. Our State Police remind us that, generally speaking, we can be as safe as we want to be.

Edna G. Morse, late of Hanover, deceased; Horace J. Morse of Hanover, Executor without bond. May 26, 1953. 29

STATE OF MAINE

To all persons interested in either of the Estates hereinafter named:

At a Probate Court held at Paris, in and for the County of Oxford, on the third Tuesday of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifty-three, from day to day from the third Tuesday of said June the following matters having been presented for the action thereupon hereinafter indicated, it is hereby Ordered:

That notice thereof be given to all persons interested, by causing a copy of this order to be published three weeks successively in the Bethel Citizen a newspaper published at Bethel in said County, that they may appear at a Probate Court to be held at Paris, on the third Tuesday of July A. D. 1953, at 10 of the clock in the forenoon, and be heard thereon if they see cause.

Cornelia B. Chapman of Bethel, adult ward. Second account presented for allowance by Alice M. Capen, Conservator.

Edwin Billings, late of Bethel, deceased. Petition for license to sell real estate situated in Bethel, presented by Robert E. Billings, Administrator.

Witness, Everett C. Hayes Judge of said court at Paris, this third Tuesday of June in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and fifty-three.

AN EYE-OPENER

(Contributed)

This is a beautiful town to live in. Every traveler, or passerby exclaim on its beauty, the attractiveness of our school building, our luxurious hotel, and the many well kept, privately owned buildings. We are nestled within the shadows of many mountains on all sides, and our streets are skirted with giant elms and maples. This town is made by these different things which add to its beauty, and the desirability of a nice place in which to live.

So we have the town, and then next come the people who live in it. In every town there are all kinds of people, all classes and races constitute a hamlet or a township.

And every town has the different types who find fault. Some of the government who would like to run it differently some of the weather who forever find it either too hot or too cold, and always those who want to see the town managed in a more efficient manner. Then in turn there are always the gripers who can always find something to gripe about. It might the radio reception is poor caused perhaps by an electric welder or drill not far from where you live. Or it might be caused by an electric mixer or grille at a nearby lunch counter. Some other person cannot see why our streets and lawns are littered with papers and pop corn boxes, or beer bottles thrown in the gutter in front of their houses, or lying sparkling in the sun on the front lawn.

In every town there are the class of people who do not require sleep, so they enjoy riding around the town at night at all hours, sounding ther auto horns, or else turning on the car radio loud enough so everyone housed nearby can plainly hear and enjoy the midnight programs while they be peacefully in bed, trying to get some much needed rest. Of course some do not have cars, so they can always ride a motorcycle, it will go faster, and make more noise, at the same time.

To those who enjoy their night's sleep it is a sweet lullaby to lay and listen to some of their neighbor's dogs congregated for a midnight lark or frantically protesting to some midnight prowler, or chasing the motorcycles. If the listeners do not care to enjoy their plaintive tune it might be more enjoyable to turn over in bed and try the other ear and get the steady rythym of the music box in the restaurant just below.

Among the gripers' gripes could be the man nearby who is mowing his lawn and finds to his dismay that the lawn mower just can't hurdle those large rocks, which he saw some children throwing on his lawn the other day.

To many of the aged people those especially with failing eyesight it is a familier sight to see them carefully picking their way along trying to avoid the cracks in the sidewalk, or I might hasten to add, if there is a side walk at all where it is possible to walk.

If these aged people get safely across the street they feel they are in a safety zone where they can relax a little, when behold in front of them is some toy truck or tricycle left there by some careless children, which they find they must go around.

Finally, on a straight place where all seems to be clear and safe, along comes several bicycles coming down at a fast rate of speed, and using all the newfangled gadgets on the handle bars to make a terrific noise, announcing to the side walker they must clear the path for them as it is the younger generation coming and "speed" is their slogan.

So, this is a nice town, to live in, probably no different than all other towns, for people make the place in which we live, and every locale has its same gripers and problems to meet.

However as a parting thought wouldn't it be a far nicer world to live in if everyone old and young could respect the wishes of others, and live a life full of kind deeds one for another, with plenty of love and respect for the older and aged people?

More than 3000 Maine men and women belong to the Maine Extension Association. How about you?

PLUMBERS SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION AT NORWAY TONIGHT

Schools of instruction for plumbers are being conducted throughout the state by the State of Maine sanitary engineers.

At these schools William Markham lectures on the plumbing code and gives instruction to those men who are interested in taking the examination to receive their plumbers license.

Henry Koferl teaches lead work and other practical subjects that are included in the examination and installation of plumbing.

Both Mr Markham and Mr Koferl are glad to answer any questions relating to the examination, code, installation of plumbing, and the recent changes in the code.

All men who are interested in the installation of plumbing and plumbing inspectors are cordially invited and urged to attend these schools.

There will be a school held in Norway on Thursday, July 16, at 7:00 p. m., at the store of L M Longley and Son.

TOASTED open-faced sandwiches satisfy your hunger pangs but don't heat the kitchen since cooking time is short. Toast bread on one side, top with a slice of luncheon meat, spread with chili sauce and top with a slice of cheese. Broil until cheese melts.

Lamb chops take well to barbecue sauce and broil quickly to keep your kitchen cool. Serve with a fruit garnish of pineapple, banana half and grapefruit segments.

Chilled soups are ideal for starting off the meal with proper spirit. You might try jellied consomme or, icy cold cream vichyssoise.

Salad-sandwiches are popular warm weather luncheon fare. Here's a delicious one: place buttered rye bread on platter, top with sliced, cooked chicken and top with thousand island dressing.

Don't discard cold, fried trout. Serve it on a bed of watercress or lettuce and pass with sour cream in which are floating thin slices of cucumber. Serve with a lemon wedge.

Looking for something to go with potato salad? Take thin rounds of salami and spread with a mixture of grated carrots mixed with mayonnaise. Roll as a cornucopia and serve around the salad.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Daffodil Cream Pie
(Serves 6)

1½ cups apricot whole fruit nectar
½ cup granulated sugar
Few grains salt
1 envelope (1 tablespoon) plain gelatin
¼ cup cold water
½ cup chilled evaporated milk
3 tablespoons lemon juice
1 baked 9-inch pastry shell

Heat nectar with sugar and salt. Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve in hot nectar. Cool until slightly thickened. Whip evaporated milk until thick. Gradually beat in lemon juice. Fold whipped milk into thickened gelatin and pour into baked pastry shell. Chill until firm.

Deadly, uncontrolled speed is nothing more than runaway horsepower, hurtling the vehicle and its occupants to a possible, steel-twisting, flesh-ripping, bone-splitting crash. Such runaway horsepower has caused a large number of deaths on Maine highways this year. Our State Police urge us to remember that when we are seated at the wheel of a car, we are holding the reins which govern a hundred or more horses in amount of power. Don't let those horses get out of control.

THE idea of live lobsters from Maine intrigued me. Ideal for a party, I thought, and proceeded to order

Meanwhile, the wife made elaborate arrangements for a party—a sort of a backyard clam bake. Perhaps I should say backyard lobster bake, except the lobsters had to be boiled.

The lobsters arrived, well packed in ice and kicking. I took them home.

The outdoor fireplace was roaring and a boiling kettle of water, with the correct amount of pepper, etc., added, was ready.

"Well," says I, "shall we dump them into the pot, dear?"

"Aren't you going to kill and clean them first," says she.

"Certainly not," says I. "They have to be dumped alive into the boiling water and cooked for exactly 15 minutes."

"Alive!"

"Sure, honey."

"Then let's see you do it, Mr. Michael," says she. "I'll not boil a creature to death, even anything as repulsive looking as those things."

"Go ahead," I urged, "you are a famous cook. Think how it will add to your reputation."

"No," says she.

"O. K. Out of my way!"

After several false starts I grabbed one of the things and held it above the pot. "One, two, three—go," I counted, but my fingers didn't let go. It had sort of a pleading look in its mean little eyes.

"Ha!" says the wife. That was the most intimidating "ha" I ever heard from a human. "Mr. Big, your hungry guests are waiting. I'll go get the lobsters."

"What about those things," says I.

"Throw them in the fish pool," says she.

To date the things have eaten three of my prize goldfish.

600,000 4-H'ers Say "Let's Help Correct Safety Hazards"

Chicago—(Special)—The largest volunteer army ever organized for a peaceful mission is now "invading" farms and rural communities throughout the Nation. It consists of more than 600,000 4-H Club boys and girls whose objective is to show rural folk how to prevent accidents and fires which result in 14,000 deaths and 1¼ million injuries among farm people, as well as destruction of millions of dollars' worth of buildings and equipment annually.

Falls account for 36 percent of all fatal accidents in farm homes and 19 percent outside. More than 50 percent of all fatal accidents in working with farm machinery involve tractors, and overturning accounts for more than half of the tractor accident fatalities.

Safety experts give considerable credit to the contributions made by 4-H'ers for the reduction of one-fifth in the number of fatal accidents to farm people in 1951—the last year for which estimates are available—from the estimated annual rate in 1941, the first year of the National Farm Safety Week, which will be observed this year July 19-25.

Illustrative of the 4-H'ers do "approach" to the accident problem, a Tennessee club girl reported that she picked up broken glass, rusty nails protruding from boards, and other sharp articles in the farm lots helped her father and brother become safety conscious in working with farm machinery; had a ladder with two broken rungs repaired; persuaded her mother to use a step-ladder in reaching high places in the house, and to always wipe up grease or water immediately if it is spilled on the floor.

A Texas 4-H boy reports that their farm tractor often was filled with gasoline to overflowing when the engine was warm. He called this unsafe practice to the attention of his father and brother and now the tractor is filled correctly. His small brothers frequently asked to ride on the tractor, but this safety enthusiast taught them to understand how hazardous it was to hitchhike a ride on a tractor.

Similar reports of the 4-H'ers participating in the National 4-H Safety program are legion. Instead of using "don't" admonitions, expressions such as "Let's Correct This Hazard" prevail.

Outstanding 4-H records of achievement in safety are rewarded with awards provided by General Motors for the ninth consecutive year. They include sterling silver medals for the blue award group in each qualifying county, and an all-expense trip to the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago next November for the state winner. Six state winners will be chosen to receive a national award, which is a $500 college scholarship. A handsome plaque, appropriately embossed, will be awarded to the county reporting the most outstanding county-wide 4-H safety program.

The National 4-H Safety program is conducted under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service.

ANSWER

V. A. NEWS LETTER

Korean veterans who were disabled while in the service and entitled to all the tuition, tools, and supplies they need to make employable in civilian life, according to M L Stoddard, manager of the Veterans Administration Center, Togus, Maine.

Stoddard said also that VA will pay these disabled veterans subsistence allowance for living purposes in addition to compensation payments while they are training or studying for their job objective. The subsistence payments vary according to the number of dependents the veteran has.

To qualify for VA's vocational rehabilitation, the Korean GI must have enough of a disability to entitle him to regular compensation payments; he must need training to overcome the handicap of the disability or he must need training to develop his abilities in preparation for employment.

Stoddard said the VA offers the disabled veteran professional vocational counseling service to assist him in choosing training of the following types; college level or below; trade schools or training on-the-job or on-the-farm.

VA considers a Korean veteran one who served other than dishonorably anywhere in the world since June 27, 1950.

— Question and Answer —

Q—I am a disabled World War II veteran, training under Public Law 16. I suffered an injury in training that has aggravated the disability for which I draw VA compensation. Is it possible to have my compensation rate increased because of it?

A—Yes, but VA, of course, would have to adjudicate your new claim for increased compensation.

TWO NEW BULLETINS PUBLISHED BY EXTENSION SERVICE

Just off the presses at the University of Maine are two new Extension Service bulletins. They are 430, "Christmas Harvest," and 431, "Raising Dairy Calves and Heifers." Both may be obtained free from county agents or by writing to the Agricultural Extension Service, University of Maine, Orono. "Christmas Harvest," by Lewis P Bissell, Extension forestry specialist, is intended to help Maine woodland owners in growing more Christmas trees of high quality to maintain and increase the market for Maine trees. "Raising Dairy Calves and Heifers" was written by Ralph A Corbett, Extension dairyman. It covers completely the subject of raising young dairy animals on the farm.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH SERVICES IN BETHEL

Sunday School and services at Christian Science churches and societies will continue in full swing during the summer months, it was announced today.

"All the churches and societies of our denomination continue their services and other regular activities year round," said Mrs Irma H Thompson, Christian Science Assistant Committee on Publication for Bethel. "Our Sunday School welcomes pupils up to the age of 20, and everyone is welcome to attend our Sunday services and Wednesday evening meetings."

Sunday services are held at 7:30 in the evening at Mrs Thompson's home on Vernon Street. The Wednesday evening meeting is also at 7:30. Sunday School convenes at 10:45 a. m.
